DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 6 and 8-10 are rejected, as understood, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Taylor et al. (U.S. Patent No. 4,667,664) in view of

Taylor et al. disclose an adjustable drill guide comprised of a guide frame having an arm portion (42) and transverse base portion (36), a rod member (18) connected to the base portion and parallel to the arm portion further having an elongated stem portion and having an aperture (22) extending therethrough, and a guide member (46) including a channel (60) extending therethrough at an angle normal to the longitudinal axis of the arm as well as being moveable and lockable along the length of the arm portion. The lockable mechanism comprises a set screw (72). Taylor et al. also show the arm portion including indicia (78) representing the relative height of the channel with respect to the bone tunnel when the elongated stem portion is inserted inside the bone tunnel. With regard the statement of intended use and other functional statements, they do not impose any structural limitations on the claims distinguishable over Taylor et al. which is capable of being used as claimed if one so desires to do so. In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). Furthermore, the law of anticipation does not require that the reference "teach" what the subject patent teaches, but rather it is only necessary that the claims under attack "read on" something in the reference. Kalman v. Kimberly Clark Corp., 218 USPQ 781 (CCPA 1983).

Furthermore, the manner in which a device is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (1987).

Taylor et al. disclose the claimed invention except for the elongated stem portion having an enlarged head portion. Re et al. teaches the use of an enlarged head portion in order to facilitate tissue graft attachment (Page 3, paragraph 1). It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to have created Taylor et al. with an enlarged head in view of Re et al., in order to have a device that would be able to be used in an easier manner.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3, 5 and 7 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 11-19 allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed December 20, 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that the examiner failed to provide the required motivation for making the modification to the device disclosed in Taylor. In response to Applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the Examiner recognizes that references cannot be arbitrarily combined and that there must be some reason why one skilled in the art would be motivated to make the proposed combination of primary and secondary references. In re Nomiya, 184 USPQ 607 (CCPA 1975). However, there is no requirement that a motivation to make the modification be expressly articulated. The test for combining references is what the combination of disclosures taken as a whole would suggest to one of ordinary skill in the art. In re McLaughlin, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971). references are evaluated by what they suggest to one versed in the art, rather than by their specific disclosures. In re Bozek, 163 USPQ 545 (CCPA) 1969. In this case, it would have been obvious to combine Taylor et al. with an enlarged head in view of Re et al., in order to have a device that would facilitate tissue graft attachment.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
